Rusty Schultz (AL) should be a very recognizable face for anyone who has attended our Hunter & Outfitter Conventions. Rusty is one of our auction captains and a strong supporter of GSCO. He is also a dedicated mountain hunter and recently completed his Capra World Slam. Here is a brief note we received from Rusty soon after he reached that milestone:

I just returned from Spain and had a great adventure with Antonio Teruel of Iberhunting. Please add the Beceite and Southeastern ibex to my list of Capra animals taken, which I believe should now complete my Capra World Slam. I was also fortunate to have taken a nice European mouflon and a beautiful Rusty promised to send a full report from this hunt at a later date, and we look forward to seeing it. Congratulations, Rusty!

Since Rusty mentioned Iberhunting, here would be a good place to bring attention to the fact that this company, for the first time, has an advertisement in OVIS. You will see Rusty's smiling face on that ad over on page 43. We suspect Rusty just might have been the catalyst for Iberhunting coming on board with us as an advertiser.

AL took this beautiful Gredos ibex in Spain with Antonio Teruel of Iberhunting, November 2012.

This Southeastern ibex from Spain completed the Capra World Slam for Rusty Schultz (AL). He hunted in November 2012.

... Rusty! For sure, welcome to Iberhunting as part of the Schultz family.

... Rusty and his hunting, he has revealed to us in a way that he is simply a working class guy. We have found so many people who make the statement they cannot afford to hunt mountain game, at least internationally. Rusty is absolute living proof that we as humans pretty much figure out a way to do things we really want to. There is no doubt this mountain hunting bug is deeply entrenched into the psyche of this great hunter. Keep at it, Rusty, and somehow we believe your next mountain hunting milestones will be sooner rather than later.
